

Dear citizens and residents of Erfurt,
Dear visitors to our state capital,

These are challenging times. We face many tasks and issues that need courage and hope. One challenge is welcoming and integrating people who come here, wishing to join our community.

Do we build walls around ourselves? Or do we break barriers and make "new spaces"? This idea is the theme of this year's Intercultural Week.

We want to create places for meeting and sharing. Newcomers should feel welcomed and be a part of our city life. They shouldn't leave behind their culture or beliefs. Instead, let's celebrate these differences. This makes Erfurt vibrant and open to the world.

As the mayor, I hope newcomers feel safe and at home here. I wish for them to be a true part of us. We can make this real by sharing and meeting often. The Intercultural Weeks provide chances for this.

There are many events showcasing our city's rich mix. Together, let's show we stand against hate, prejudice, and discrimination.

On behalf of all involved, we invite you to help create "new spaces" in our city. Talk, join in the mix, and find shared joys.

Andreas Bausewein
Lord Mayor of Erfurt

José Manuel Paca
Head of the Foreigners' Advisory Council for Erfurt

Katrin Kellner, Annegret Pfister, and Daniel Stassny
